

DEALING WITH ABUSIVE OR VIOLENT VISITORS TO SCHOOLS

ODST Policy Guidance (Schools may use this to inform the drafting of their non-statutory policy)

This document is intended to provide advice and guidance to staff members of the Oxford Diocesan Schools Trust (ODST), local governing body members in ODST schools and directors of the Trust on dealing with abusive or violent visitors to schools. Its contents are drawn from guidance available on government national archives and from the National Association of Headteachers (NAHT).

Introduction

1. ODST is committed to ensuring that all members of its school communities, and all visitors to its member schools, can be confident that they are within a safe environment and that a zero-tolerance approach will be adopted towards any acts of abusive, violent or threatening behaviour.
2. Day to day access to a school is within the control of the Headteacher. Normally parents/carers (and those with parental responsibility) are granted “limited licence” to visit the grounds and buildings of a school.
3. ODST member schools will often establish local procedures which set out: the acceptable purposes for such visits; the areas of the school that may be entered at particular times and the standard of behaviour expected.
4. Where there is a breach of such procedures the school, as a member of ODST, should respond in a measured way, taking into account the seriousness of any inappropriate conduct.
5. It is possible that a Headteacher may initiate action on their own authority, but it is less likely to lead to personal confrontation if the more serious sanctions are initiated through the ODST.

Overview

6. As a general rule, schools are orderly, safe places, where relationships between staff and visitors, especially parents/carers, demonstrate mutual respect and recognition of shared responsibility for pupils’ welfare and educational progress. Parental involvement is an important factor in educational success and in dealing with emerging problems at an early stage.

7. However, on occasion, the behaviour of a few parents/ carers can cause severe disruption or worse, resulting in abusive or aggressive behaviour towards staff, pupils, or other members of the school community.
8. ODST has a responsibility for protecting the health and safety of their staff and pupils and takes this responsibility seriously.
9. This guidance is mainly about dealing with violence, threatening behaviour or abuse by parents of a pupil in a school.
10. Violence, threatening behaviour and abuse against school staff or other members of the school community will not be tolerated. All members of the school community have a right to expect that their school is a safe place in which to work and learn. Where such behaviour does occur, ODST in conjunction with the Headteacher will play a proactive role in taking all possible action to deal with it.
11. In certain circumstances, this may mean that ODST will take the lead in initiating action on the school's behalf with the school's support, and in other circumstances ODST will support the school in action that the school itself will initiate. It is key though that in any such situations there is dialogue between the Headteacher and ODST at the earliest possible opportunity.
12. Headteachers should in the first instance ask ODST for advice on the appropriateness of any remedies available and ODST will, where they have the power to do so, take the lead in initiating action. In circumstances where power does not lie with ODST (e.g. under criminal law) the Trust will support and advise schools with a view to removing as much of the burden from them as possible.

School policy for dealing with incidents

13. Where a school seeks to introduce a policy covering incidents involving abusive, threatening or violent adult visitors, such policies should be adopted following consultation with staff and parents. Typically, such a policy will provide a readily available set of procedures on:
 - a. what to do when an incident arises (e.g. ask the person to leave, or invite them into a room away from other people);
 - b. whom to contact during an emergency (i.e. at the school, local authority and police);
 - c. how to record incidents and who to report the incident to;
 - d. what follow up action is possible (i.e. any legal action to be taken; if a parent, whether they should be refused entry to the premises);
 - e. what support is available from the employer, (e.g. counselling, occupational health or legal support);
 - f. liaison with the police whenever necessary.
14. The existence of the policy can be publicised, by displaying suitable posters in areas of the school that may be entered by visitors.
15. Some ODST schools may be involved in safer school partnerships under which an operational police officer will be based on school premises. The main aim of this approach is to provide a safer environment by minimising the risk of such incidents (whether they involve pupils, parents or others) and enabling incidents which do occur to be quickly and effectively dealt with. Where a partnership has been established, policy and procedures for dealing with violence, threatening and abusive behaviour by parents should be developed within the context of this.

Conducting a risk assessment

16. Whether an ODST school has a formal policy or not, a risk assessment to staff and others from abusive or violent visitors should be documented. This does not need to be a complicated process, but simply involves raising a number of questions to which you seek answers.

A risk assessment should:

- a. identify and assess the risks;
 - b. determine appropriate actions;
 - c. implement the actions;
 - d. monitor the results; and
 - e. provide feedback.
17. It is good practice to ask staff directly about the extent of problems that they are aware of as part of the process of assessing risk. It is also helpful to consult school health and safety representatives about possible risks.
 18. A risk assessment should identify what the risks are (e.g. abuse, threatening behaviour, violence, and from whom), and who is likely to be at risk (e.g. reception staff, teachers, school keeper). Once these are identified consideration can be given as to how to manage these risks and how they can be minimised.
 19. In some cases, potential violence can be reduced and even prevented if members of staff have the skills to spot conflict before it leads to aggression and to use techniques to reduce aggression before violence occurs.
 20. ODST schools may also consider offering members of staff personal safety training, which can help in:
 - a. reducing violent attacks by parents and others;
 - b. enabling staff to defuse aggression and prevent situations escalating;
 - c. teaching staff to recognize verbal and nonverbal precursors to aggression and use techniques to calm a potential assailant;
 - d. improving staff confidence in dealing with aggression and the resulting stress; and
 - e. minimising the risk of an attack causing injury.
 21. Guidance on risk assessments can be found on the HSE website (details at the end of this document).

22. Model incident report form and publicity

23. This is included in Appendix A and will assist with the recording of any incidents of abuse, threatening behaviour or violence against any members of the school community. A record of an incident will help in the collection of evidence where necessary, such as when proceedings are being brought against an alleged assailant. Available photographic evidence of any injuries or damage, or relevant CCTV footage, can also be helpful. Recording details of incidents will also help in reviewing the school's policy, and should ideally inform future risk assessments.

24. If there is an injury to staff from an assault, the school may need to report the injury to the health and safety executive (HSE) under the requirements of the Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous Occurrences Regulations 1995 (RIDDOR), as amended in 2012.

25. A poster that schools may wish to display is included at Appendix B, setting out clearly the rights and responsibilities of visitors to the school, and explaining that steps may be taken to remove visitors who are violent, threatening or abusive to any member of the school community;

26. Section 547, Education Act 1996

27. A parent/carer of a child attending a school normally has implied permission (limited licence) to be on the school's premises at certain times and for certain purposes but if their behaviour is unreasonable this permission may be withdrawn and they will become a trespasser. This is covered under section 547 of the Education Act 1996 and template letters can be provided to ODST schools to support any such action taken under this clause.

28. Section 547 makes it an offence for a trespasser on school premises to cause or permit a nuisance or disturbance, and allows for the removal and prosecution of any person believed to have committed the offence.

29. In addition to any action taken on behalf of ODST by the Headteacher, the police are authorised to remove someone from school premises and to bring proceedings for an offence under this section.

30. It is not set down in law how a person should be authorised but ODST would recommend that this is documented in writing within any school policy. Appropriate training should also be provided to all such persons.

31. Schools wishing action to be taken against someone they believe has committed an offence under s547 should contact ODST. If the police have been involved the school should clarify whether the police intend to summons or charge and whether the Crown Prosecution Service has decided that there is sufficient evidence to prosecute. In most cases, it will be in the public interest to prosecute if there is sufficient evidence to support a prosecution.

32. The Headteacher will need to assemble the full facts before proceeding, making sure that all those involved in any incidents, or witnesses to those incidents, make a full written record as soon as possible. Crucial elements of the process include:

- a. writing to the parent/carer/intruder to record in detail the incident and why it is unacceptable;
- b. explaining that the school/ ODST will consider banning the parent, giving the parent a period in which they may respond in writing giving their version and why they should not be banned;
- c. telling the parent when a decision will be made.

33. Even where a parent/carer has been banned from the school premises, they retain their right to an annual consultation in relation to the educational progress of their child/ren. However, the school may determine who will be present at the meeting (e.g. a senior member of staff might accompany the class teacher) and its location (e.g. it may well be arranged off site). The interests of the child should continue to be paramount.

34. Using powers under section 547 allows for action which ODST, working in conjunction with the school, can take on behalf of a school and which can be straightforward, quick and effective in removing violent, aggressive or abusive people from school premises. In practice, it is amongst the most widely used remedies. However, it is not a decision that should be taken lightly and Headteachers should always seek guidance from ODST when considering such action.
35. There may be occasions when Section 547 will not be the most appropriate remedy and in instances of serious violence, repeated harassment or racially aggravated behaviour for example, criminal sanctions may be warranted. ODST would support the school in any such situation and would take a proactive approach.

36. Summary

37. ODST is committed to ensuring that all members of the school community, and all visitors to its member schools, can be confident that they are within a safe environment and that a zero-tolerance approach will be adopted towards any acts of abusive, violent or threatening behaviour.
38. The actions outlined above are examples of strategies that ODST schools can adopt to reduce the likelihood of, and mitigate the impact of, a situation in which a visitor to an ODST school demonstrates abusive, threatening or violent behaviour.
39. Staff members are encouraged to report any concerns to their line manager/ Headteacher so that appropriate investigation and action can be taken.
40. Support and guidance are available centrally to ODST Headteachers to enable effective management of any such situations.

I have not received a written response from you / I have now received a letter from you dated, the contents of which I have noted.

In the circumstances, and after further consideration of the headteacher's report, I have determined that the decision to withdraw permission for you to come onto school premises should be confirmed. I am therefore instructing that until further notice you are not to come onto the premises of the School without the prior knowledge and approval of the headteacher. ODST will take steps to review the continuance of this decision with the headteacher on When deciding whether it is necessary to extend the withdrawal of permission to come onto the School's premises, ODST will consider the extent of your compliance with the decision, any appropriate expressions of regret and assurance of future good conduct received from yourself and any evidence of your co-operation with the School in other respects.

Finally, I would advise you that I have asked the headteacher to ensure that your complaint aboutis considered under the appropriate stage of the School's parental complaints procedure. You will be contacted about this by the School in due course.
